

Show Reviews

"Joining them is street-wise-ex-con Mitch Mahoney (hysterically performed by Javar La'Trail Parker), who serves as the contest's dreaded terminator, subtly called the "Comfort Counselor."

-Democrat & Chronicle (The 25th Annual Putnam County Spelling Bee, Geva Theatre)

"The whole cast is simply faultless, with highlights from Javar La'Trail Parker as the antagonist Benny in You'll See. "

-Love Midlands Theatre (20th Anniversary UK tour Rent)

"Unlucky in love Benny (Javar La'Trail Parker), played his part well and effortlessly singing 'You'll See' helped the audience firstly, dislike and resent him a little, but later he showed his better nature and endeared the audience towards him. "

-Entertainment Views (20th Anniversary UK tour Rent)

"Yuppie sometime-bad guy Benjamin Coffin III seems as peculiar a character as ever, but Javar La'Trail Parker invests him with a surprising degree of humanity."

-All Edinburgh Theatre (20th Anniversary UK tour Rent)

"...the audience was rocking from the start, with the great "fugue for tin horns" I Got the Horse Right Here with Nicely Nicely Johnson (Ako Mitchell), Benny Southstreet (Fela Lufadeju) and Rusty Charlie (Javar La'Trail Parker) taking us straight to the heart of the action."

-Stageylady (Guys and Dolls, Royal Exchange Theatre)
